

BROAD BREASTED BRONZE TURKEY

Popular with commercial production, this breed was developed for the table. The coloring is similar to that of the wild turkey, but the size and shape of the two differ greatly. Although excellent table birds, like the commercial Broad-Breasted White breed, these heavy birds may have difficulty mating naturally and will often require artificial insemination for them to reproduce successfully. They are still capable foragers and a striking addition to any farm. The standard weight for young toms is 25 pounds and for young hens is 16 pounds.

Classified as Study by the ALBC.