

CHINESE GEESE

Also called the Swan goose, the Chinese is one of the most popular and well known breeds of domestic goose. Their smaller body size coupled with their active foraging ability make the Chinese goose an economical breed. They are tame birds, but are among the best watchdogs with their vocation to be vocal. They are considered the best layer among the goose breeds and can produce 80 per year, but a more reasonable number is 30-40.

Classified as Watch by the ALBC.