

MALLARD DUCKS

The Mallard Duck is one of the best-known and most recognizable of all ducks. They are social birds and need to be raised and kept with other ducks as opposed to being solitary. These ducks have a natural fear of humans but adapt well to backyard ponds. Like most ducks, Mallards are very cold hardy. The Mallard can be strongly migratory in the northern parts of its breeding range, but will usually stay at home if fed regularly.